F. D. R. AND LONDON VIE FOR 2 STATES IN CLOSING WEEK

Both Candidates To Concentrate Last Full Week of Campaigning for Electoral Votes of New York and Pennsylvania.

REPUBLICAN CHIEF TO MEET AL SMITH

Roosevelt Will Speak in Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg and Two Other Large Cities Thursday.

By The Associated Press. With the prize the two largest blocks of electoral votes, major party presidential candidates concentrate their last full week of campaigning on New York and Pennsylvania.

The partisans of both have made claim to New York's 47 and Pennsylvania's 36 electoral ballots.

Governor Landon's route into the industrial east today takes him through Washington, where President Roosevelt was devoting a few days stop-over to speech writing. Local Republicans said the Republican nominee's train would halt this morning at the edge of the capital to pick up a delegation.

Attends Church. Mr. Roosevelt left the White House yesterday for the first time since returning to Washington Friday to motor under a bright October sun to morning services at St. Thomas Episcopal church.

His military aide, Colonel Edwin M. Watson, and Mrs. Watson sat in the back beside him as he listened to a sermon by the Rev. Charles Fiske, retired bishop of the central diocese of New York.

Leading off with two addresses described by the White House as "non-political," the President will cram 10 speeches into the eight days remaining before the balloting gets under way.

Today he will help dedicate a PWA-financed chemistry building here at Howard University, negro institution, then leave by special train Tuesday night for Bayonne, N. J. From there a government boat will carry him to Bedloe's island, in New York harbor, for observance of the fiftieth "birthday" of the Statue of Liberty.

The President will set out for the north Tuesday night, en route to political addresses at the two Pennsylvania cities.

Two Tugs to Rescue Of Helpless U. S. Ship

DUBLIN, Oct. 26 (Monday).—(UP)—Two tugs sped from here under full steam early today to aid the S. S. American shipper, drifting helplessly with a damaged rudder off Codling Lightship, 30 miles from the Wicklow coast.

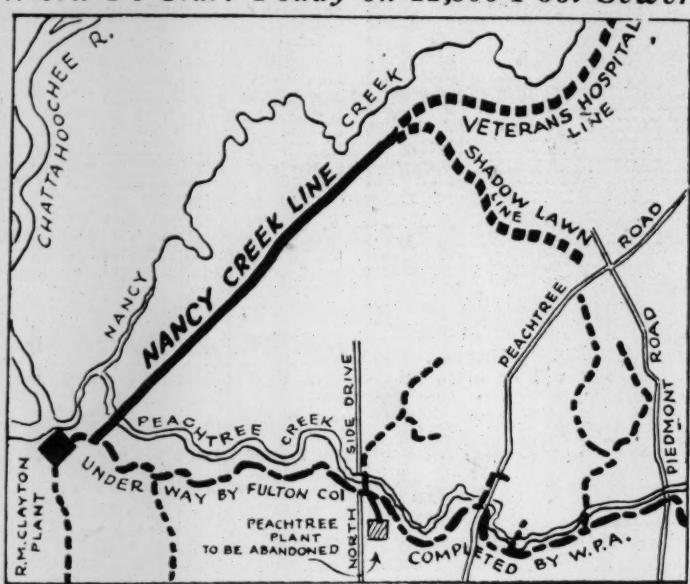

The ship radiated for aid late last night. The tugs were expected to reach the United States Line vessel in about three hours.

The radio and aid late last night. The tugs were expected to reach the United States Line vessel in about three hours.

Report from London quoted C. W. Roper, president of the United States Lines, as saying that he did not believe passengers and crew of the ship were in immediate danger. He pointed out that there was heavy shipping in the water, where the American shipper lay and that, if necessary, the vessel could send an SOS to some nearby ship.

Roper said he believed the little vessel was carrying about 30 passengers.

Work To Start Today on 22,500-Foot Sewer

Three hundred WPA workmen will begin today the construction job on the new Nancy creek sanitary sewer line, shown in the map by a heavy black line. The line will connect the Veterans' hospital line and the Shadow Lawn line with the Peachtree creek line that will empty into the R. M. Clayton disposal plant. The dotted lines show other sewer developments in northwest Atlanta, built through the co-operation of the city, the county and the Works Progress Administration. The Nancy creek line will be completed by March 1.

POLITICIANS GAUGE MID-WEST DRIVES NEW SEWER LINK WILL START TODAY

Both Parties Have Concentrated Heavy Fire in Normally G. O. P. Area.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25. (AP)—The sharp struggle to capture the popular midwestern states—unprecedented in duration, scope and intensity—moved toward a crisis today while political prophets sought to gauge the effects on the November election. The big question was whether the traditionally Republican central states would return to the Republican fold in November or whether the Democratic victory of 1932 would be repeated.

Admittedly pivotal, and just as admittedly puzzling, principally because of intra-state issues, the entire midwest has been eagerly courted by Republicans and Democrats, but Ohio, Illinois and Michigan with a combined total of 74 electoral votes, seem to loom increasingly important.

"Ohio Is Key." "Ohio," said Colonel Frank Knox, Republican candidate for vice president, "is the key to the whole situation."

He promised that Governor Alf M. Landon would storm its borders again before election day.

Both President Roosevelt and Governor Landon courted the length and breadth of the central section of the country and before and after them, came squads of nationally known orators.

Just three times in 40 years have Democrats triumphed in the Buckeye State. Woodrow Wilson carried it in 1912 and 1916, and Roosevelt in 1932.

Ohio Republicans now say they are presenting a united front, after a bitter fight between "regulars" and "liberals."

Democratic national and state headquarters are operating separately but without outward evidence of friction. President Roosevelt swung through Ohio a week after Landon. He was accompanied by all important state leaders, including Governor Martin Dacey, whose sharp tilt with the national administration on relief problems caused an open break between him and Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator.

Dacey declared his unqualified support for the President, however. Michigan has caused party strategists to burn much midnight oil. The Republican party was born there and only once in the more than three-quarters of a century since that time has a Democrat won its electoral vote. He was Franklin D. Roosevelt. Normally, the state is Republican by a majority of 100,000.

Michigan is expected to poll 1,900,000 votes, 300,000 more than has ever been cast before. Like Illinois, its big city vote is a determining factor.

146 MEET DEATH IN PLANES, AUTOS DURING WEEK END

Three Aircraft Crashes Account for Eight of Deaths; 5 Are Killed in Plunge of 250 Feet.

By The Associated Press.

At least 146 persons lost their lives in automobile and airplane accidents throughout the nation over the week-end.

Eight were plunged to death in three plane crashes in Virginia, Oklahoma and Texas, five of them in one accident.

Two fliers were killed when a twin-engine plane crashed during a rain in a wooded section between Texarkana and Mount Pleasant, Texas, last yesterday.

Their bodies were burned beyond recognition. One was tentatively identified as E. N. Gibson, Scott Field, Ill. The pilot was listed as Captain C. Charles Howard, communications officer at Langley Field, Va.

Residents of a town near the crash scene said the plane passed over shortly before the accident with its motors spluttering.

Five were killed in Marion, Va., when a plane fell 250 feet from a golf course from which it had taken off Sunday. The dead were William F. Mitchell, 30, Bluefield, W. Va.; Charles Henry, 40, of Marion; Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Chappell, Welch, W. Va., and R. B. Tidwell, Bluefield.

The crushed body of Frank E. Orndorff, 27, of Texas, Bureau of Air Commerce pilot, was found near the wreckage of his plane on a mountainside near Ardmore, Okla. The discovery ended a search begun Saturday night after the 34-year-old veteran flier was reported missing.

On the highway three persons were killed near Springfield, Ohio, when a passenger train and their automobile collided. The victims were thrown clear and the car carried a mile before the train stopped.

Week-end auto deaths by states: Alabama, 3; Arkansas, 1; Arizona, 1; California, 9; Colorado, 3; Connecticut, 1; Florida, 1; Georgia, 1; Idaho, 4; Illinois, 9; Indiana, 11; Kentucky, 2; Maine, 2; Massachusetts, 2; Minnesota, 1; Montana, 1; Nebraska, 1; New Jersey, 1; New Mexico, 1; New York, 1; North Carolina, 2; Ohio, 10; Oklahoma, 7; Oregon, 4; Pennsylvania, 9; South Carolina, 1; Tennessee, 3; Texas, 13; Virginia, 10; Wisconsin, 3; Washington, 4.

JAMES ROOSEVELT QUOTES RECORDS TO REFUTE LONDON

Kansas School Head Supports Criticism by President's Son of Nominee's Attitude on Education.

BOSTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—James Roosevelt, son of the President, said tonight the state of Kansas, of which Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate for president, is governor, "has allowed a system to exist which appears to deny the opportunity for real education to . . . many children."

Roosevelt, prior to a radio appearance in which he made his charge, said he would "absolutely prove" previous utterances regarding the Kansas school system.

Landon Friday said a member of the President's "immediate family" had made "utterly untrue" and "misleading" charges against his state's school system.

Roosevelt quoted as authority for his assertions W. T. Markham, state superintendent for public instruction for the state of Kansas.

He said Markham, in a letter to United States Senator George McGill, Democrat, of Kansas, last February, had made "utterly untrue" and "misleading" charges against his state's school system.

The charges were contained in a note—one of the most heated official communications in the history of diplomacy—delivered Saturday to the ambassador to the United States, Mr. Joseph P. Kamp, in connection with intervention in the Spanish Civil War.

It replied to Russian allegations that Portugal was aiding Spanish rebels. The note charged further that the Soviet ambassador to Madrid, Marcel Rosenberg, dominates the Spanish government and himself called a secret gathering of Communists in Madrid at which Francisco Largo Caballero was chosen prime minister.

The note alleged that Russian army officers are directing the present defense of Madrid.

Portugal's note, signed by Foreign Minister Armando Monteiro, said the Soviet agents in Portugal were plotting to overthrow the government and that other Bolsheviks were sent to the Iberian peninsula charged with provoking a Spanish war against Portugal.

The document leveled amazing charges against Rosenberg, who was ambassador to Spain, appointed last month by the U. S. S. R. The note said Rosenberg was the "hidden spirit" of the Madrid cabinet and that he personally attended meetings of the cabinet. It charged that when Rosenberg came to Madrid he brought to Spain 140 Soviet agents.

The note continued: "From a military aspect, the Russian influence also is predominant. Higher command operations are, in effect, in the hands of officers from Moscow, and in many instances, immediate direction as well."

"For example, two columns which fought at Talavera were commanded by the Russian officers Theodor and Dimitroff. The fortification and defense of Madrid is being directed by foreign officers, according to the admission of the minister of the interior of the Spanish government."

Insisting that "Russia's technical intervention is prolonging the Spanish civil war."

"President Roosevelt," Hague said, "is the greatest President our nation has ever had. I have had my differences with Roosevelt. I went into the convention of 1932 feeling that someone else should have been nominated. But when the convention nominated Roosevelt, I was the first to notify him that I was for him and

Simpsons' Divorce Hearing May Be Conducted Today

Although Case Is Scheduled for Tuesday, Only Four Others Precede It and They May Be Disposed of Quickly; "Wally" Eludes Widespread Reportorial Search.

By VIRGIL PINKLEY.

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press.) LONDON, Oct. 25.—A clearing dock in Ipswich assigns court tonight opened the possibility of a hearing tomorrow for the Simpsons' divorce case as scores of rumors developed out of the secrecy by which the action was surrounded.

The case is scheduled to be heard at the head of a list of six divorce actions at 2:15 p. m. Tuesday. However, only four cases—two civil and two criminal—are docketed ahead and their quick disposal might make possible hearing of the Simpson suit late tomorrow afternoon.

Justice Sir John Anthony Hawke will reconvene court at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow to hear cases ahead of the Simpson suit on the docket.

Mrs. Ernest "Wally" Simpson, King Edward's American friend, still eludes efforts of newspapermen to trail her to a hideout somewhere on the east coast near Ipswich, where her divorce suit against her home-loving, broker husband is scheduled for hearing Tuesday.

The king spent the week-end quietly with a small party of intimates at Fort Belvedere. This morning he enjoyed brilliant sunshine in the grounds

REBELS BATTLING FOR POSSESSION OF ROAD, RAILWAY

Actual Extent of Danger Confronting Capital Can Be Gauged Only From Fact Dispatches Show Heavy Hand of Censor.

WHITES DRIVEN OFF FROM EL ESCORIAL

Berlin, Rome Agree To Respect Territory Unless Some Is Traded for Foreign Support.

By The Associated Press.

The roar of cannon echoed over Madrid yesterday as the Spanish government hurled new troops into the southern war front in desperate efforts to stem the Fascist march on the capital.

Reinforcements were rushed to the Valdemora sector in battle for possession of the Aranjuez highway and the Madrid-Levante rail communication.

Fascist bombers and artillery were directed at the government positions in an effort to cut off Aranjuez, but the Madrid defenders claimed they were holding their ground.

Communications with Madrid were so slow and uncertain and all dispatches were heavily censored so that it could not be fully determined the extent of danger confronting the capital defenders.

A Fascist attempt to capture El Escorial, important city in the Guadarrama mountain range to the northwest of Madrid, was reported to have been repulsed by government troops under Colonel Mangada. Art treasures, including valuable Goya tapestries, were taken from the city for safekeeping in Madrid.

A Fascist broadcast from Salamanca declared the insurgent forces had checked Socialist fighters in northern Asturias and had cut communications between Oviedo and Monte Narango.

While battles raged in widespread areas of Spain, these other developments were reported:

Official sources in London said Poland was expected to present charges that the international neutrality agreement had been violated by both Socialist and Fascist sympathizers with the Spanish belligerents. It was understood the Polish allegations would deal with shipments of arms to both sides in the civil war.

Lajos, a Hungarian, dismissed by the Spanish government from his post as air attaché to the Spanish embassy in Washington, reached Lisbon.

2 Critically Wounded In Shooting Affray

DeKalb county police early this morning were investigating a shooting affray in which two men were seriously wounded shortly before midnight at Ward's Place, night spot on Macon highway near Constitution.

George Ward, about 45, proprietor of the roadside drive-in, was in Georgia Baptist hospital with a bullet wound in the neck, and Clark Adams, 20, of Ellenwood, Ga., a customer, was admitted to Grady hospital with a chest wound. The latter was said to have been accidentally hit when another man began shooting at Ward.

Cobb Says: Derby Wonderful Pacifier

By IRVIN S. COBB.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 25. A missionary on an Arizona reservation says the Apache, once the fiercest of the tribesmen, is going "plum" tamer. And when a movie company took a group of Indian extras on location, these original Americans, being stripped for action, got terrible cases of sunburn.

They wore clothes so long their tender skins couldn't stand the heat. There's a lesson here, although so far as the victim is concerned, it's probably too late to do anything about it. Once we'd backed the noble red man into a pair of $3 pants, we had him tamed. Sitting Bull, in war bonnet and buckskins, was a splendid savage, but, wearing overalls, and a hickory shirt, he became just a brunet farm hand.

The derby hat may be the homeliest creation ever devised for human use, but it's the crowning glory of civilization, and the most pacifying for alien folks, as witness Haulie Selskie, looking now rather like a Filipino bell-hop on his Sunday off, and Chief Geronimo in his late photographs. Old Geronimo wasn't ferocious then; he was just plain lacky.

If the Indian wants to regain his once carefree status, he'll have to start undressing.

Constitution's Fall Garden School Opens at Woman's Club Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be a red letter day in the lives of Atlanta garden lovers. The reason? The Constitution's Fall Garden School opens at 9 o'clock in the morning at the Atlanta Woman's Club, with Atlanta's own nationally famous garden expert, Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, as the instructor.

Appropriately enough, the topic for tomorrow's lesson will be "Designing Your Own Garden." Before the garden party, these men who ask loyal Democrats to destroy and disrupt the party because they themselves are disgruntled.

Today's speech was Hague's first in this campaign. Both Democrats and Republicans had been wondering what attitude Hague would take to former Governor Smith's walk from the party.

One Killed, Five Hurt In Two Auto Crashes

Two automobile accidents last night resulted in the death of an unidentified man and serious injury of five persons.

The unidentified man, between 32 and 40 years old, well dressed in dark clothes and clean shaven, was struck on Pryor road as he walked backward from behind two parked cars into the path of a car driven by Obie Chapp, 21, of 1134 Dekker street. He was the 50th automobile fatality in Atlanta this year.

Technical charges of reckless driving were posted against Chapp.

A head-on collision of a car driven by G. W. Campbell, 20, of 218 Flora avenue, on an overhead bridge at Ford street, with a car driven by Bob M. Miller, 20, of 575 East avenue, demolished both cars. Others injured with severe cuts and bruises were Mrs. Miller, 18, whose injuries are undetermined, and Roswell Stone, 21, 1342 May avenue, passenger with Campbell, and Ernest Davis, 16, 645 Highland avenue, in the car with the Millers. Campbell faces technical reckless-driving charges.

sylvania cities of Wilkes-Barre and Harrisburg on Thursday. Mr. Roosevelt proposes to make talks at Camden, N. J., and Wilmington, Del.

Second Trip.

Returning to the capital Thursday night, the President starts a second northern trip the following day. He speaks Friday night at Brooklyn and Saturday at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Governor Landon opens his final eastern campaign with a talk at Baltimore this morning and major addresses at Philadelphia tonight. Speeches at Pittsburgh Tuesday, Newark, N. J., Wednesday noon, and Madison Square Garden, Thursday night follow. On his way home to Topeka, he halts for an address at St. Louis on Saturday.

Friends of the Republican nominee and Alfred E. Smith expect the two to have their first meeting of the campaign when the former reaches New York. Although the 1928 Democratic presidential nominee has campaigned in behalf of Mr. Landon's election in recent speeches, the two have not had opportunity for an across-the-table talk.

Al Smith To Speak. Smith is scheduled to make his final public condemnation of New Deal policies in an Albany, N. Y., speech Saturday night.

E. Townsend urged his followers to "get actively behind" the candidacy of Governor Landon in New York and 13 other states in which William Lemke, Union party candidate for President, is not on the ballot.

Townsend said in a statement that "this is the only course for us to follow." The California physician said that he still saw a chance of throwing the election into the house of representatives for a final decision. This closing week of political debate includes scheduled speeches by Secretary Ickes at Harrisburg on Tuesday and Senator Frederick Steiwer, Oregon Republican, in Indiana and Arizona on Wednesday and Friday.

MINSTREL MAN DIES.

THAMBURO, Ark., Oct. 25.—(AP) Ted Creager, about 45, employee of an itinerant minstrel show, burned to death late last night at Crosssett in a fire which destroyed the covered truck in which he slept.

H. S. Talmar, manager of the minstrels, said he believed the fire started when a charcoal stove overturned in the truck.

He said the show had no records of Creager's home or relatives.

parently, which knew or cared less about the Simpson case than Ipswich. The townspeople still look blank when Mrs. Simpson's name is mentioned. Court attendants said they had never known so many London reporters to attend assizes "but anyway its no different."

With the court in recess over the week-end, still wilder rumors circulated, including:

1. That the case would be withdrawn because of the publicity it is attracting, principally in the United States.
2. That the case would be withdrawn from Ipswich assizes, where attention is centered, and tried in London.
3. That the judge would hear the case in chambers.
4. That the case would be heard in secret, with the courtroom cleared. In connection with this rumor it was pointed out that a particularly sordid incest case is scheduled just before the Simpson case, and that the court probably would be cleared for the incest trial.

An extensive check in many quarters convinced the United Press that the rumors were pure fabrication, arising from arguments over what the judge can or cannot do, and that the case will be heard on schedule about 2:15 p. m. Tuesday.

Court reopens at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow (4:30 a. m. Atlanta time).

Young Amnesia Victim Comes Here In Vain Quest of Lost Identity

A tall young man who has wandered over the south and southeast, apparently the victim of amnesia, last night sought the aid of Atlanta police and The Constitution in learning his identity.

The youth, apparently 20 or 21 years old, has a fraternity key inscribed Phi Eta Sigma and is carrying a woman's watch which bears the initials "M. P."

"Mr. X," or Martin Peace, the name he has adopted temporarily, says the first thing he recalls was walking down a street in Austin, Texas. He said it suddenly occurred to him he did not know his name nor where he was from.

From Austin he traveled through various cities in Texas, Louisiana, Alabama and finally came to Atlanta. He is brown haired, has gray eyes, is approximately 180 pounds and 6 feet, 2 inches tall.

"Mr. X" says when he first realized he did not know his own identity he was attired in a brown suede jacket, brown suede shoes, brown trousers and white shirt.

Although he carried a wallet with a small amount of currency, there were no identifying papers in it or among his effects.

"Mr. X" says he is interested in social science, but has no idea what he was doing or where he was from when his memory failed him.

BABY IS NEAR DEATH DUE TO CANDY GIFTS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Because J. M. Lavender brought home candy to his 3-year-old daughter, Mary Jo, the baby was near death tonight.

She saw her father leave his car opposite their home and ran across the street, crying eagerly, "Candy, candy, candy." Lavender looked on helplessly as she ran into a car driven by W. B. Smith, of Chickamauga, Ga., and went down under the wheels. Physicians at a hospital here gave her little chance for life. Her father exonerated Smith of any blame in the accident.

GEN. YANG YUNG TAI ASSASSINATED BY BOY

HANKOW, China, Oct. 25.—(AP)—General Yang Yung Tai, governor of Hupeh province and one of Dictator Chiang Kai-Shek's strongest supporters, was assassinated tonight by an unidentified Chinese youth. General Yang was shot while he was returning home from the United States consulate where he had been a dinner guest. A suspect was arrested. Six shots were fired and two took effect. The general was rushed to the hospital and died there within a few minutes.

Yang was appointed governor of Hupeh province in December when General Chang Chung became foreign minister for the Nanking government.

"LINDY" EXPECTED TO STAY AT KENT

Paper Quotes Him as Saying Has Found Comfort and Freedom.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh does not plan to return to the United States in the immediate future, the Sunday Referee said today in a column feature story on the American flier.

The story carried a three-column headline reading: "Lindy still village hero. All children know him. Spends hours with garage hands." The story was datelined at Weald, Seven Oaks, Kent, where Lindbergh leased a country estate, "Long Barn," shortly after he departed from the United States with his family in fear his second son, Jon, might be kidnapped. The article said: "Colonel Lindbergh is the most popular man in this village." A member of Lindbergh's household staff was the source of the paper's information that Lindbergh did not contemplate returning soon to the United States.

The paper quoted Lindbergh as telling friends they had found the complete comfort, freedom of movement and real happiness at Long Barn.

GEORGIAN DROWNS IN BISCAYNE BAY

Jack Cummings, of Bonaire, Disappears After Sail Boat Overturns.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Jack Cummings, of Bonaire, Ga., 18-year-old Miami Military Academy cadet and football player, was believed to have drowned today when a small sailboat overturned in Biscayne bay.

Cummings was sailing with Clark M. Dozier, 20, of Montgomery, Ala., fellow student and teammate, at the time of the accident. Dozier told police he did not see his companion after both started to swim ashore with the tide. Dozier, virtually exhausted, was rescued half way to shore by E. E. Sistrunk, who was piloting another sailboat.

A coast guard rescue boat rushed to the place where the boat overturned, but Cummings could not be found. It was believed he had become exhausted and lost his hold on the boat, or else drowned while attempting to follow his companion to shore. Cummings was the only son of Mrs. W. D. Kersey, of Bonaire.

KIERAN CIRCLES WORLD IN 24 DAYS, 14 HOURS

Reporter, Miss Kilgallen and Clipper Party Arrive in N. Y.

By CHARLES E. HARNER. NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The China Clipper party of newspapermen was home tonight after more than 22,000 miles of flying in which the whole westward span of American aviation was surveyed.

On each of the 12 days of actual flying since the start from Newark, N. J., airport, October 4, we averaged more than 1,800 miles of travel, but still we had slept comfortably and eaten well throughout the journey.

The whole trip was accomplished on two American commercial air runs—the Trans-Pacific Clipper line, of Pan American Airways and the Orient Plier of United Air Lines, which connect at San Francisco.

Our original party—Lauren D. Lyman, of the New York Times; C. E. Allen, of the New York Herald-Tribune; Harry Frantz, of the United Press; W. W. Chaplin, of Universal Service; William Van Dusen, of Pan American Airways; and the writer—was increased at Manila, the western terminus of our trip, by the "round-the-world" travelers, Dorothy Kilgallen and Leo Kieran, of the New York Times.

Kieran reached Times Square 24 days, 14 hours and 20 minutes after he started on his trip, made exclusively by regular commercial lines. Miss Kilgallen cut a couple of hours from this figure by taking a private airplane out of San Francisco ahead of us.

tion and extension of undeveloped sewerage outlets of the metropolitan area; to finance storm sewer improvements and for a school building program. One million dollars of bonds were for the sanitary sewer program. This project will represent a total cost of about $6,000,000.

Dr. Durrett said yesterday: "The Greens Ferry line, upon which work started in August, also will be completed before November 15. This line, 6,700 feet in length, starts in the Maddox Park area and extends to West Hunter street. Much of this line is through rock.

"Work on the Shadow Lawn line was started recently. This line begins west of the intersection of Peachtree and Lindmont roads and connects with the Veterans' hospital and Navy creek lines. It is to be 10,900 feet in length. About half of this line is through rock formation.

North Utoy Creek Line. "Good progress is being made on the North Utoy creek line, which was started recently. This line, which begins at the trunk line on Cascade avenue and runs 55,600 feet to the Chattahoochee river, will not be finished until after the first of the year.

"The sanitary sewer lines completed by WPA are: Peachtree units Nos. 2 and 3 in the northern section; Sugar creek line and tunnel, leading into Intrenchment creek disposal plant, which will be finished before Christmas; the South river unit; the McDaniels street line, and the Key Golf Course line. The latter unit was built to do away with an open ditch which ran through the golf course.

"The Techwood storm sewer will be finished by November 1. This line, which includes 90-inch concrete pipe, will serve a large area in the heart of Atlanta, including the Techwood housing project, and part of the business section of Atlanta.

Work is going forward on the Conally street storm sewer, which was started about a month ago. This storm sewer unit will not be completed, however, until after the first of the year."

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

Posed by Eleanor Whitney.

An Excellent Lipstick That Is A Very Inexpensive One

By MIGNON.

There are today many women who are economizing on cosmetics—and it seems to be the last thing on which they will stint themselves, for custom makes it imperative that they always look their prettiest and have plenty of good makeup. I have found the answer to this problem for the girl who needs a good lipstick and wants to be very careful of her pennies. It is a fine article, made by a most reliable house, is inexpensive and the colors are varied.

Sometimes it is not the quality that makes the price. Sometimes it is. In many instances women demand that they pay a big price for something and it would be a silly manufacturer who didn't try to satisfy them. It never pays to buy inferior merchandise, and most of all, in cosmetics, which are put upon your face, where any damage done, if it can be remedied at all, can only be cured after a long and humiliating experience.

Facial blemishes cannot be hidden in a country where women do not wear heavy veils, and not every woman can go to Turkey during this period of correction. So I'm giving you good advice when I say be sure and get good merchandise, or don't use any. It would be better to let your face dry up and your throat get wrinkled than to make yourself unpleasant to look at, with inferior or poisonous cosmetics.

There are varied prices for lipsticks and some wonderful ones cost quite a bit for girls with thin purses. I like to indulge myself to buy expensive, sweet-scented lipsticks, but it's nice to know that if you haven't the price of a stick that is a trifle high you can get one for half that amount and not be afraid of its quality.

The line is not new. It has been tried on the market for a long time and has been a marked success. The color is good and it lasts, although I never like to talk about the lasting qualities of lipsticks, because what lasts on one woman won't last on another. No doubt you understand that the chemistry of the body has much to do with the performance of lipsticks, the color changing on some women and staying right and perfectly put on others.

Try one of these and I think you will thank me for telling you about them.

If you wish to know the name of the article mentioned above and where it may be purchased, phone Mignon at The Constitution. Do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Admiral Standley, Naval Chieftain, Slated for Retirement January 1

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(P)—Rounding out 45 years active service, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, is scheduled for retirement next January 1.

If unofficial predictions now current materialize, however, it will be sometime before the square-jawed, graying, sea fighter can settle down to full retirement in his ocean beach home near San Diego, Cal.

President Roosevelt was described in some sources today as wanting Admiral Standley to head the newly created maritime commission to administer the government's merchant marine subsidy laws.

Informal discussion of his possible successor as the navy's chief administrative officer centers upon Admiral William D. Leahy, who holds the second highest flag command in the fleet—commander of the battle force.

Standley will be just two weeks past the statutory age of 64 of New Year's Day, which compels all officers to relinquish active duty in the naval service.

Leahy, who is three years younger than Standley, has served once as chief of the Bureau of Navigation. The appointment to fill Standley's post probably will be made soon by President Roosevelt.

During his three years as "opnav," the navy code for chief of naval operations—Standley has been one of the driving forces behind the administration's program to build the navy up to full strength allowed by existing treaties and inaugurate after that an order system of warship replacement.

He helped frame the Vinson-Trammell bill by which congress authorized a building program designed to give the navy by 1942 the full complement of ships and men to which it is entitled by present limitations treaties.

A firm believer in the principle of "a navy second to none" for the United States, the soft-spoken admiral nevertheless took a leading role in two unsuccessful international efforts to curtail world armaments.

For several months this year, he was called upon to assume added responsibilities in the Navy Department because of the death of Henry L. Roosevelt, assistant secretary, and the prolonged illness of Secretary Swanson.

The statement was issued, it was explained, as a reply to inquiries regarding her plans in view of the death of her husband, Irving Thalberg, Hollywood producer.

Pictures prepared for her by Thalberg, Schenck said, will "be held in abeyance until she is well enough and able enough to discuss them with us."

more attractive place for visitors and a more desirable city in which to live. The Garden Schools of the past have been attended by capacity audiences and it is expected the school this year will meet with even greater success than its predecessors.

New Garden Tools. During the year, many innovations in gardening tools and equipment have been introduced and new methods developed for the culture of flowers. The latest discoveries will be outlined and described by Mrs. Crown. Many of the latest implements will be displayed.

As interesting as the opening day is the program prepared for presentation on the second meeting. At that time Mrs. Crown will deal with bulbs of all types, preparation of the ground for their planting, care of the bulbs during the winter months, and allied subjects.

Wild Flowers. A gardening topic which has come into immense popularity in recent months will be the subject of the concluding lesson on Thursday. At that time Mrs. Crown will discuss wild flowers, their planting, arrangement and care. It has been pointed out that many Atlanta homes are admirably suited to the informal planting of wild flowers which, in many instances, rival for beauty the old line of cultivated plants.

The fashion show will precede the garden lessons each day and will be a highlight of the presentations. Models will display 24 separate costumes each day chosen from the huge stocks of Sears. Included in the brilliant array of costumes will be the latest in children's apparel as well as the modes for milady.

The opening day style show will reveal the effects of costumes of the past on present-day wear. The style shows on Wednesday and Thursday will display the correct attire for every occasion around the clock. Styles will be included to suit every taste, every type and every purse.

U. S. TRADE RESTRICTED BY LATIN MONEY BARS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(P)—An effort to clarify exchange control problems in Latin-American countries detrimental to United States trade will be made at the inter-American conference at Buenos Aires in December.

Trade officials here said today they considered exchange restrictions one of the chief barriers to increased commerce between North and South America and were studying possible means to eradicate or liberalize existing control systems.

FLAT GLASS WORKERS STRIKE FOR UNION SHOP

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 25.—(P)—A strike order went into effect today at six plants of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company employing approximately 6,000 men.

The order was issued by Glenn McCabe, president of the Federation of Flat Glass Workers, who claimed the company refused the union's demand for a "closed shop."

The plants involved are situated at Ford City and Creighton, in Pennsylvania; Mt. Vernon, Ohio; Henryetta, Okla.; Crystal, Mo., and Clarksburg, W. Va.

D. F. Cannon, assistant superintendent of the company's plant at Ford City, said no attempt will be made to operate while the strike is in effect.

The Ford City factory, one of the largest in the industry, employs about 1,500 men. Maintenance men remained on duty to care for equipment.

SON OF F. D. R. REPLIES TO LONDON CRITICISM

A vast difference between the boy and girl who is educated and the boy and girl who escapes illiteracy simply by being able to read and write.

Deny Opportunity.
The complaint of all intelligent people must be that, in the state of Kansas, the present state administration has allowed a system to exist which appears to deny the opportunity for real education to so many children.

On February 17, 1935, Roosevelt asserted, the Topeka Daily Capital, "the newspaper of the Republican state," Arthur Capper, said editorially: "The unfortunate truth is that our salaries (of teachers) compare unfavorably with those of all our neighbors."

Another educator, William McAndrew, was quoted next by Roosevelt to support his contentions.

McAndrew was quoted as saying: "I cannot pump up my enthusiasm for anything that the Republican schools have done for education in its own state of Kansas. He has been the principal factor in keeping the system at a low standard."

Roosevelt quoted from a message he said Landon sent to the Kansas legislature in 1935, which said: "During the past three or four years it has been necessary to conduct our schools at lower costs than in the past in order to meet changed and changing conditions."

It is significant that during the past three years school costs for Kansas have been reduced approximately 40 per cent."

Landon Failed to Act.
In conclusion, Roosevelt asserted, "the criticism can be placed squarely upon the political leaders of Kansas, including its governor, who, having knowledge of these facts, have failed to act."

"I have endeavored to confine myself strictly to the facts."

"I do not believe... that the citizens of this state will subscribe to the educational practices of Governor Landon on November 3."

Speaking last night at a dinner sponsored by the Democratic Businessmen's League of Massachusetts, the President's son declared:

"I regret in the last few days or so, my political opponent has found it necessary to call personal names."

"There are some things a man must fight for, among them his honesty and personal integrity."

Will Quote Record.
"So tomorrow night I intend to go on the radio to quote by chapter and verse, to the absolute page and line, to prove absolutely every public word I have spoken in this campaign."

Earlier yesterday, young Roosevelt, who has been campaigning throughout Massachusetts for his father's election, issued without comment a "transcript" of previously made remarks to which he said Governor Landon referred.

The passage referring to the Kansas school system was the President's reply to a question in a radio forum broadcast from Boston on October 19.

The question: "Mr. Roosevelt, can you tell us how Governor Landon balanced the budget of the state of Kansas?"

The answer, as related by Mr. Roosevelt:

"Governor Landon balanced the budget for the state of Kansas in accordance with the law of the state. The budget of Kansas is $10,250,000, which is little more than that of the city of Worcester (Mass.)."

U. S. Did Balancing.
"To balance the budget of the state of Kansas required federal loans and grants of $425,000,000. In addition, Governor Landon cut the salaries of school teachers of Kansas to an average of $9 a week. He eliminated 444 schools, thereby depriving thousands of children of their opportunity to receive a primary school education."

"It is one thing to pay lip service to the theory of economy. It is something else to practice it at the expense of the federal administration which he is now condemning."

"We in Massachusetts have one of the greatest public school systems in the world. Our teachers are happy and contented. Our children are given every opportunity for an education. I do not believe the citizens of this state will subscribe to the practices of Governor Landon on November 3."

HOPKINS SAYS KANSAS ASKED SCHOOL AID

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, said tonight that Governor Alf M. Landon, the Republican presidential nominee, had applied for a $150,000 federal relief fund on January 5 to prevent the closing of rural schools in Kansas.

In reply, Hopkins said in a statement, he had said that "since your legislature is now in session and considering legislation for school reorganization and support, I believe it would be proper to ask it to make the relatively small appropriation required for temporary aid to rural schools."

Before the Governor's application arrived, Hopkins said, John Stutz, recently prominent in the press regarding high administrative costs for direct relief in Kansas, "telegraphed the relief administration that several rural schools were unable to open because of lack of funds due to poor tax collection."

LEGIONNAIRES SILENCE COMMUNIST AT TAMPA

Browder Escapes Unhurt as Second Attempt To Talk Is Fruitless.

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 25.—(AP)—A band of men whose leaders wore American Legion caps slugged their way to flag-draped stand in a vacant lot where Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate, was starting an address today and broke up the meeting.

A dozen persons, including a couple of women, were injured slightly by blows from the raiders' fists and a pistol used as a club by Constable Fred Newberger.

The wooden scaffold which served as a rostrum was upset during the fighting but Browder and the others who occupied it slid down the tilting floor to the earth and were not hurt.

Flanked by his friends, Browder hurried away before the melee died down and retired to his hotel to remain in seclusion until his train left.

Browder came here last September 13 to deliver an address but the hat which he expected to use was padlocked.

The leader of the men who broke up today's meeting was a strapping fellow who wore an orange American Legion cap. He and his associates had been standing by the side of the lot, in downtown Tampa, for a full half hour before the speaking started.

They went into action as Alfred Bell, state secretary of the Communist party, introduced the presidential candidate.

The leader said afterward he and his associates were not acting as members of any organization. There were several Legion caps besides his.

"We're just a group of red-blooded American citizens," he said. "We don't care to discuss it any further, but we're proud of the part we've taken."

SECURITIES SALES INCREASE 13.6 PCT.

SEC Reports September Bond, Stock Total at $1,882,282,523.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Value of sales on all securities exchanged in September was reported today by the Securities and Exchange Commission as totaling $1,882,282,523.

The commission said this was an increase of 13.6 per cent over the value of sales in August and an increase of 12.2 per cent over September, 1935.

Stock sales (including rights) had a value of $1,594,411,570, an increase of 11 per cent over August, the commission reported. It listed bond sales at $287,870,953, an increase of 30 per cent.

Total sales of stock in September was given as $9,623,994 shares, or 17.1 per cent above the August figure. Total principal amount of bonds sold was listed as $378,519,548, an increase of 37.5 per cent.

When Mentalist and Astrologer Converse

Alano Dass, world-traveled psycho-mentalist, meets Bernice Pierson, astrologer, who conducts The Constitution's "Let the Stars Guide You" feature. Photo by Slayton, staff photographer.

Alano Dass and Bernice Pierson Compare Telepathic Influences

By LILLIE MAY ROBINSON.

Alano Dass, psycho-mentalist now appearing twice daily, the Rialto theater, attracted to The Constitution's daily feature, "Let the Stars Guide You," expressed a desire to meet Bernice Pierson, who conducts the column, Mrs. Pierson, approached, was pleased.

Thought waves floating through The Constitution office in anticipation of the meeting were: Will they meet and sit in judgment of each other? Will they plunge into a discussion involving astrology and psychic forces beyond the understanding of the listener-in? Will one resent the presence of the other? Will there be a polite, but none-the-less, present, undercurrent of that over-worked professional jealousy?

You would have been disappointed. Mr. Dass arrived first and was in the act of going into a phone booth, in the absence of his crystal, to ascertain the why of Mrs. Pierson's delay, when, like a flash, she smilingly appeared in the doorway. Just as if Aladdin's magic lamp had been stroked. What a crystal that glue pot proved to be! Did that smile turn bitter—did it sear? Emphatically not!

Reason for Delay.
When Mrs. Pierson explained that a nervousness born of a traffic congestion had occasioned her loss of time driving into town, Dass, his face wreathed in that always-near-the-surface smile, exclaimed: "Yes, Capriotti people do take life seriously. They have to be certain before they proceed."

At this keen observation and instant perception on the part of the psycho-mentalist, Mrs. Pierson replied: "Your general appearance—the eyes and shape of your head—would lead me to think you were born under — and there she named a sign which might, to the listener-in, have been any one in the Zodiac—but you are too quiet. That won't do." So her opinion was held in abeyance while in a most friendly—and not at all stilted and professional manner—the two launched into a conversation both interesting and entertaining, even to the non-technical and in no sense astrological mind of the aforementioned listener-in.

Mr. Dass wishes he were fairly wealthy for one reason, namely, that he might carry on his work, that of leading, encouragement and help where it is most needed, for that is the underlying principle of his analyses, without remuneration.

Way of thought: To follow him further, thought waves, which he grasps by that deep form of concentration of which most of us are incapable, are just as present in the ether as those waves of sound which the sensitive mechanism of the radio, when properly tuned, picks up.

Speaking of the people who call for advice on their problems and the questions they ask, Mr. Dass says it may be depended upon that young girls and boys are interested first and foremost in affairs of the heart; that after 30, the general trend of thought is, "Have I chosen the right kind of devisor at which I will be most successful—or should I change to some other?"

Men—he laughingly states, present their problems just do not concern women, though they are more undercover about it. ONE KILLED IN CRASH; ATLANTA IS INJURED
AMERICUS, Ga., Oct. 25.—(AP)—One man was killed and five others seriously injured today in an automobile-CCC truck collision 11 miles northeast of here on the Americus-Andersonville highway.

Cliff Snider, 41, Americus resident, was fatally injured. Mr. Snider's wife, Mrs. Anna Katherine Snider, received a broken back, and C. M. Jordan, a relative, sustained a broken hip. Mrs. Snider and Jordan are in an Americus hospital. They were occupants of the car.

Three members of the Andersonville CCC camp, Josie Holder of Atlanta; James Cook, of LaGrange; and Grady Snider, of Andersonville, were brought to Prather clinic here painfully injured.

Respect Territory.
In Berlin, it was reported by Italian Foreign Minister Ciano that Italy and Germany had agreed to a policy of respecting the integrity of Spanish territory.

This stand was defined by Berlin spokesmen as indicating a benevolent attitude toward the Burgos Fascist junta if it is victorious in the Spanish civil war and provided no Spanish territory is traded for foreign aid.

German observers believed it was the policy acceptable to Great Britain and one which would not endanger Germany's desire to retain British friendship despite Nazi sympathy with the Fascist movement in Spain.

PORTUGAL SAYS RUSSIA PLOTTING REVOLUTION

War, the note lists many alleged cases of Soviet aid to Spanish Loyalists, ranging from "several dozens of Russian airmen at Getafe airbase" to "delivery of poison chemicals for poisoning food and water."

The note attempted to refute all allegations Russia made against Portugal October 6, responding to Moscow's charge that a Portuguese state-owned plant had been producing war materials for Spanish Rebels, Monteiro described this charge as "childish."

Explaining "this state factory only manufactures physical (sic) gunpowders and fireworks."

Portugal Importer.
He emphasized that Portugal was an importer of armaments and declared there was "absolutely no ground for any accusation that war material had been sent abroad."

In conclusion, Monteiro described the alleged Soviet plot to start a revolution in Portugal as a plan "opening the way to fulfillment of Russia's revolutionary aims on the Iberian peninsula as the first stage of still greater imperialistic ambitions. Through internal warfare the Soviets wish to drag Europe into the next external war."

The Portuguese government reserved the right to submit a proposal in the future to avoid Russia's constant violation of the non-intervention agreement.

"President Franklin D. Roosevelt will be our next president. Of that there is no question. And he will receive a greater majority this year than he did in 1932."

Mayor Hague also asserted that New Jersey is "out of the doubtful column" and its electoral votes will be for the President.

F. D. R. Attackers False.
Those that attack Roosevelt are speaking falsely, he said. He told his audience that President Roosevelt is "one of the most loyal Democrats this nation has ever had."

The man who attempted to "stop Roosevelt" in 1932, said.

"I appeal to the Democrats of our nation. We love our party. No man has disagreed more often than I have when I thought my cause was right, but always within the party. And no one has ever dared to invite me to step outside my party and to question my democracy."

"I want the people of this state to understand, especially the Democrats, that I do not propose to stand idly by and permit disgruntled Democrats to plead with loyal Democrats to quit their party and to say that President Roosevelt is not a true Democrat."

20,000 SOVIET TROOPS TO AID SPAIN—REPORT

Spanish Fascists Attempt To Kill U. S. Reporter

MADRID, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The disappearance of Henry Tilton Gorrell, of Washington, D. C., near Ciempozuelos, 17 miles south of Madrid, was reported today by the United States embassy in Madrid to the State Department in Washington.

Gorrell, a special correspondent for the United Press in Madrid, was stated by another United Press representative to have been attempting to reach Aranjuez.

The representative said Gorrell's car was suddenly confronted by a number of green whippet tanks, which immediately unleashed a fusillade of machine gun bullets.

Gorrell was stated to have jumped into a ditch for shelter while his chauffeur turned his car back toward Madrid.

The withering machine gun fire, the representative said, prevented Gorrell from regaining the automobile and one of the tanks heading straight for his refuge turned over in the ditch alongside of him.

Two tanks were firing continuously on top of him, the United Press representative added.

It was reported that a Fascist radio broadcast had announced Gorrell had been taken prisoner.

Two reporters missing are James Moffie, a Canadian, special correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, and Denis Weaver, an Englishman, special correspondent of the London News Chronicle.

Miffie and Weaver had not been heard from since they left Madrid at 2:30 p. m. Sunday when they set out by automobile to reach Aranjuez.

POLITICIANS WEIGH DRIVES IN MID-WEST

In Michigan, Detroit is the key; in Illinois, Chicago.

Active in Illinois.
There seems little question but that the presidential campaign in Illinois has been conducted with more vigor than in any other state.

President Roosevelt has visited Illinois twice since he was renominated. Governor Landon's stumping tours took him across the state seven times.

Both were accorded receptions on Chicago's Michigan boulevard. Both delivered major addresses in Chicago's big indoor stadium—packed on both occasions to its 26,000 capacity.

Illinois registered an unprecedented number of voters—more than 2,000,000 in the Chicago district, and about the same number down state. Republicans presented a united front as soon as the primary was over in April. But bitterness engendered in Democratic ranks over opposition of the Cook county (Chicago) organization to the renomination of Governor Henry Horner continued for weeks.

Democratic Chairman James Farley stepped in as peacemaker. Now, all factions say they are united for Roosevelt and the entire Democratic ticket.

SALLY EXPANDS TO EIGHT CLUBS FOR '37 SEASON

Shaughnessy Is Adopted;
Four Cities Bid for 2 League Berths.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 25.—(AP)—South Atlantic baseball league directors decided here today to expand the roster from six to eight teams.

The six teams of last season will continue in the league next spring. Two additional outfits will be accepted from four applicants, Spartanburg and Charleston, S. C.; Montgomery, Ala., and Charlotte, N. C.

No decision was made today as to which teams will be admitted. Cities seeking berths must post the forfeit fee and otherwise qualify by November 10.

Dr. F. M. Wilder, of Augusta, and R. T. Fisher, of Jacksonville, were re-elected president and vice president, respectively.

The directors eliminated the split season and adopted the Shaughnessy system by which the first division teams meet in a post-season playoff.

SOLVE ROOKIE RULE.
A knotty problem concerning the 1936 rookie rule was solved by adoption of a new rule providing that each club must carry six new players.

Nine others may be class men. Four men can be carried on the suspended list as was the case last year. The player and salary limits were unchanged.

Changing the division of gate receipts by which the home club received a larger percentage than the visiting club, it was decided to use a home and home plan next season.

All the cities represented in the league during the last season, Jacksonville, Savannah, Augusta, Macon, Columbus and Columbia, had representatives at today's session.

GANZEL BIDS.
Babe Ganzel, former manager of Jacksonville, appeared before the directors and asked that Spartanburg be given a berth in the league. Ganzel has been made a free agent by Minneapolis, the club that owned him.

A. N. Manney entered Charleston's bid. He and L. O. Mead are interested in the Charleston franchise but only Manney was present.

Also attending the session were Joe Bonowitz, representing President Joe Engel, of the Chattanooga Southern association club, and Harry Thatcher, former operator of the Columbia club but now out of baseball.

It was understood that Bonowitz presented a bid for a club franchise on behalf of Engel, but the city under consideration was not disclosed.

HORSE GUARDS WIN IN OPENER

A large crowd at Fort McPherson Sunday saw the Horse Guards win the first game, 9 to 6, in the polo match to determine the city champion. The series will hang in the balance as two out of three games are necessary to win the contest. Silver trophies will be awarded the individual players on the winning team.

Major Shook played a beautiful game for Fort McPherson in spite of a bad cut on the forehead suffered at the very outset of the game. After the game several of the players taken in his head and he was given tetanus shots.

Crushing Defeat by Pitt Reduces Irish Spirit to New Low.

By Paul Mickelson.
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 25.—(AP)—It has been five years since Knute Rockne crashed to his death on the Kansas prairie but at no time, perhaps, had Notre Dame missed the great football master as it did today.

For the sixth consecutive season of the post-Rockne era, the Fighting Irish dream of national football recognition, a goal the immortal strategist crossed so often, lay buried in the debris of a humiliating 26-to-0 defeat by Pittsburgh after a start that hinted Notre Dame was heading its way back to the glorious crest.

The crushing defeat, most decisive setback suffered by the Irish since Army whipped them 27 to 0 in 1925, unquestionably reduced Notre Dame's proud football spirit to an all-time low. And you can't blame them for feeling downhearted.

During Rockne's 13-year command of the South Bend gridiron stalwarts, Notre Dame won 105 games, lost 12 and tied 5. Under Hunk Anderson, who led the team three seasons, and Elmer Layden, in his third season as coach, the Irish have lost 14. That's two more in less than six seasons than Rockne's eleven losses in 15.

THREE REASONS.
What's wrong with Notre Dame? The answer may be found in three reasons:

1. The loss of Rockne and his amazing personality.
2. The football consciousness of other universities, large and small, who no longer sit idly by and watch stars in their territory pack their grip sacks and catch the first train for South Bend.

3. Stiffer scholastic requirements at Notre Dame.

Of the three answers, Rockne's loss unquestionably is the biggest. Irish spirit and doing an excellent job of coaching but he doesn't pretend to be a Rockne. When "Rock" was at the helm, boys of the nation over were crazy to go to Notre Dame so they could play under the great master, an artist in coaching and a wizard in human nature.

To play under Rockne was a coveted goal for thousands of embryo football stars—and even for many who somehow couldn't make their high school teams. Rockne took scores of high school letters and made them stars of first magnitude. Notre Dame was a football shrine.

GO ELSEWHERE.
Without Rockne to lure them, players began listening to advantages to be gained by playing for their home state universities and colleges. Football coaches, with alumni and the celebrated "lunatic fringe" demanding action, these schools recruited many "home town sensations" for their big games. Other far distant schools did likewise, and the steady flow of talent to the capital of the golden dome stopped.

Scholastically, Notre Dame is sterner than most colleges. In addition to following Big Ten standards, the university, since Rockne's passing, has imposed the eight semester rule. Under the rule, which has banned many stars, no player who is badly injured can get "time out." If he enters Notre Dame in 1932, he is through playing football in 1936—eight semesters later, come what may.

SELTOUTS CERTAIN.
And yet, the 1936 season, which has five tough games left for the Irish with Ohio State, Northwestern, Navy, Army, and Southern California coming in the next few weeks, is the richest in gate receipts. The Carnegie Tech, Washington University, Wisconsin and Pitt games drew 158,000 cash customers. Seltouts are certain in most of the remaining games. If so, Notre Dame's 1936 team will play before more than 500,000 spectators.

But if you don't think Notre Dame would win the remaining games, you just don't know the Fighting Irish.

ALMUND WINS
CYCLE HONORS
Howard Almund, Atlanta rider, was crowned southern motorcycle champion, with victories in the three, five, and ten mile features Sunday afternoon in the annual southern championship race at Lakewood park, with more than 5,000 spectators looking on.

Todd Haygood, popular Atlanta rider, finished second, a few paces ahead of the crowd, when he crashed in the five-mile race. Barney Barker, of Greenville, S. C., fell but escaped injury as he attempted to skip 32 seconds from Haygood's crash. Several other racers narrowly escaped injury in avoiding the crashed machines.

LOCAL FINISH.
Second in the three-mile race was Todd Haygood, with Floyd Tinsley, third. It was an All-Atlanta finish.

In the five-mile race, Tinsley finished second, a few paces ahead of George Gunn, who two weeks ago won a grudge race at the Southeastern Fair.

Tinsley and Gunn also followed Almund in order in the 10-mile race, giving Atlanta riders all three money places in each race.

Ernest Kessler, of Savannah, won the five-mile consolation race, with Jack Johnson, of Jacksonville, Fla., second and Bill Martin, Atlanta, third. Bill Martin set the pace in the time trials, and turned the mile track in 1:12.40, with Johnson finished second with Johnson third.

MEET SUCCESS.
It was one of the most successful race meets ever held in the south with more than 20 riders from five southern states participating. Members of the Dixie Motorcycle Club sponsored the program in co-operation with neighboring motorcycle clubs, who were guests of honor.

In addition to the four speed events, there were five events of stunt riding, sidecar racing, a polo match, and an egg-carrying contest.

CAGE MEETING.
A meeting of the City, Civic and Commercial basketball leagues will be held at the Central Y. M. C. A. tonight at 8 o'clock. Final plans for the formation of the leagues will be made at that time. All team managers are requested to be present.

RYCE DEFEATED TEXAS. The team which tied L. S. U. And Georgia, defeated by L. S. U., 47 to 7, outplayed Rice and should have won.

If Georgia should happen to defeat Tennessee on Saturday the done would really be scrambled.

PERHAPS THE MOST IMPRESSIVE PERFORMANCE WAS BY MICHIGAN. That team, up against a fine Columbia team, was expected to have difficulty. Yet it turned on the pressure and won going away.

Picking football winners is not a bit more hazardous than driving a nitroglycerin truck.

BOB NEYLAND CAME BACK from the army tour, resigned and took the Tennessee job. He found a badly disorganized situation. The team was split as to its loyalties. Even at the start of the present season there was talk of dissension on the team.

But the man took a young team and brought it along. He has a light line. And his team is young and rather raw. His rivals were chuckling about how he would take it on the chin this year. North Carolina beat him. He made a speech to his team after that game. He said:

"You gained more ground. You played better football. But you lost. You lost because of your own psychology. You went in to hold them. Then you found out you could beat them. But you had not made up your mind to win. You didn't. Make up your mind to win the rest of your games."

That sounds like the frothiest rah, rah, Joe College stuff imaginable. But it's right as rain. Auburn squeezed out a 6-to-0 victory. Alabama and Tennessee played to a tie. And then Tennessee beat Duke.

The best single coaching achievement of the year—that belongs to Bob Neyland—in winning from Duke.

"MY MIND WENT BLANK."
Beautiful blondes, when they pull out the old equalizer and pump four or five soft-nosed bullets into the boy friend for fancied or real philandering, always climb on the witness stand, show a length of silk stocking, and say:

"My mind went blank. I don't remember a thing."

I got in touch with Major Neyland yesterday. The actions and the thoughts of a man under stress of great emotion always have interested me.

I wanted to know what Neyland felt when he saw Harp catch the ball and start, and what he thought when he saw the interference pick him up and swing him into the clear. And I wanted to know what he said when it was done.

"I don't know," he said, "my mind is a blank as to what I said."

Maybe those blondes are right at that. Maybe the old bean is flooded with darkness.

"I didn't dare hope at first," said the Major. "I didn't see how he could. And then I saw he could. And I was afraid he wouldn't. And then I saw he was. And then I don't remember what I was saying."

Which sounds very logical. He had been figured to have a great defensive team, had the Major. Few thought he had an offense. Yet he outscored one of the best offensive teams of the season.

TULANE AND TENNESSEE.
Tulane's victory over North Carolina and Tennessee's over Duke, added a great deal of prestige to the Southeastern conference.

It so happened the two teams from the Tarheel state were the only major southern teams unbeaten and untied. Both had won intersectional victories, Duke defeating Colgate and North Carolina taking New York University.

Southeastern football had suffered something of a jolt through Georgia Tech's 19-to-6 defeat by Duke.

And then, on one Saturday, Southeastern eleven defeated the two undefeated teams. North Carolina already had beaten Tennessee. So had Auburn. But Tennessee scored two touchdowns and a safety while only six points had been scored in five previous games, and won. And Tulane scored a convincing victory, eliminating the Tarheels.

Wallace Wade has a fine football team. It undoubtedly went in there thinking it would win. Just as Tech must have entered the Vanderbilt game, thinking it would win. When the opposition comes up like thunder there isn't time to readjust the old mental apparatus.

NEYLAND FEARS GEORGIA.
Bob Neyland said yesterday he feared the Georgia game next Saturday at Athens with a real fear.

"I honestly look upon our game with Georgia as perhaps the hardest of the season," he said. "They have had a lot of hard luck. But our scouts say they have been improving every week and are plenty tough."

Which is true enough. Certainly no one team has suffered so many real injuries to so many varsity men in one season as has Georgia. To date the team has played two fine games, losing them both.

The team ebbs and flows. In the first quarter of the Auburn game, Georgia appeared absolutely helpless. Yet they came back with two touchdowns in the second half and played fine football.

If the team can ever knit together a consistent attack and not let the tide of attack ebb, then watch out. The odds don't say so. But Georgia might beat a Tennessee team which last Saturday went to great heights to win.

A FEW SURPRISES.
Georgia Tech was selected to win from Vanderbilt and fumbled away the chances. That tie game was one of the surprises.

Rice defeated Texas, the team which tied L. S. U. And Georgia, defeated by L. S. U., 47 to 7, outplayed Rice and should have won.

If Georgia should happen to defeat Tennessee on Saturday the done would really be scrambled.

PERHAPS THE MOST IMPRESSIVE PERFORMANCE WAS BY MICHIGAN. That team, up against a fine Columbia team, was expected to have difficulty. Yet it turned on the pressure and won going away.

Picking football winners is not a bit more hazardous than driving a nitroglycerin truck.

What's wrong with Notre Dame? The answer may be found in three reasons:

1. The loss of Rockne and his amazing personality.
2. The football consciousness of other universities, large and small, who no longer sit idly by and watch stars in their territory pack their grip sacks and catch the first train for South Bend.

3. Stiffer scholastic requirements at Notre Dame.

Of the three answers, Rockne's loss unquestionably is the biggest. Irish spirit and doing an excellent job of coaching but he doesn't pretend to be a Rockne. When "Rock" was at the helm, boys of the nation over were crazy to go to Notre Dame so they could play under the great master, an artist in coaching and a wizard in human nature.

To play under Rockne was a coveted goal for thousands of embryo football stars—and even for many who somehow couldn't make their high school teams. Rockne took scores of high school letters and made them stars of first magnitude. Notre Dame was a football shrine.

GO ELSEWHERE.
Without Rockne to lure them, players began listening to advantages to be gained by playing for their home state universities and colleges. Football coaches, with alumni and the celebrated "lunatic fringe" demanding action, these schools recruited many "home town sensations" for their big games. Other far distant schools did likewise, and the steady flow of talent to the capital of the golden dome stopped.

Scholastically, Notre Dame is sterner than most colleges. In addition to following Big Ten standards, the university, since Rockne's passing, has imposed the eight semester rule. Under the rule, which has banned many stars, no player who is badly injured can get "time out." If he enters Notre Dame in 1932, he is through playing football in 1936—eight semesters later, come what may.

SELTOUTS CERTAIN.
And yet, the 1936 season, which has five tough games left for the Irish with Ohio State, Northwestern, Navy, Army, and Southern California coming in the next few weeks, is the richest in gate receipts. The Carnegie Tech, Washington University, Wisconsin and Pitt games drew 158,000 cash customers. Seltouts are certain in most of the remaining games. If so, Notre Dame's 1936 team will play before more than 500,000 spectators.

But if you don't think Notre Dame would win the remaining games, you just don't know the Fighting Irish.

ALMUND WINS
CYCLE HONORS
Howard Almund, Atlanta rider, was crowned southern motorcycle champion, with victories in the three, five, and ten mile features Sunday afternoon in the annual southern championship race at Lakewood park, with more than 5,000 spectators looking on.

Todd Haygood, popular Atlanta rider, finished second, a few paces ahead of the crowd, when he crashed in the five-mile race. Barney Barker, of Greenville, S. C., fell but escaped injury as he attempted to skip 32 seconds from Haygood's crash. Several other racers narrowly escaped injury in avoiding the crashed machines.

LOCAL FINISH.
Second in the three-mile race was Todd Haygood, with Floyd Tinsley, third. It was an All-Atlanta finish.

In the five-mile race, Tinsley finished second, a few paces ahead of George Gunn, who two weeks ago won a grudge race at the Southeastern Fair.

Tinsley and Gunn also followed Almund in order in the 10-mile race, giving Atlanta riders all three money places in each race.

Ernest Kessler, of Savannah, won the five-mile consolation race, with Jack Johnson, of Jacksonville, Fla., second and Bill Martin, Atlanta, third. Bill Martin set the pace in the time trials, and turned the mile track in 1:12.40, with Johnson finished second with Johnson third.

MEET SUCCESS.
It was one of the most successful race meets ever held in the south with more than 20 riders from five southern states participating. Members of the Dixie Motorcycle Club sponsored the program in co-operation with neighboring motorcycle clubs, who were guests of honor.

In addition to the four speed events, there were five events of stunt riding, sidecar racing, a polo match, and an egg-carrying contest.

CAGE MEETING.
A meeting of the City, Civic and Commercial basketball leagues will be held at the Central Y. M. C. A. tonight at 8 o'clock. Final plans for the formation of the leagues will be made at that time. All team managers are requested to be present.

RYCE DEFEATED TEXAS. The team which tied L. S. U. And Georgia, defeated by L. S. U., 47 to 7, outplayed Rice and should have won.

If Georgia should happen to defeat Tennessee on Saturday the done would really be scrambled.

PERHAPS THE MOST IMPRESSIVE PERFORMANCE WAS BY MICHIGAN. That team, up against a fine Columbia team, was expected to have difficulty. Yet it turned on the pressure and won going away.

Picking football winners is not a bit more hazardous than driving a nitroglycerin truck.

BOB NEYLAND CAME BACK from the army tour, resigned and took the Tennessee job. He found a badly disorganized situation. The team was split as to its loyalties. Even at the start of the present season there was talk of dissension on the team.

But the man took a young team and brought it along. He has a light line. And his team is young and rather raw. His rivals were chuckling about how he would take it on the chin this year. North Carolina beat him. He made a speech to his team after that game. He said:

"You gained more ground. You played better football. But you lost. You lost because of your own psychology. You went in to hold them. Then you found out you could beat them. But you had not made up your mind to win. You didn't. Make up your mind to win the rest of your games."

That sounds like the frothiest rah, rah, Joe College stuff imaginable. But it's right as rain. Auburn squeezed out a 6-to-0 victory. Alabama and Tennessee played to a tie. And then Tennessee beat Duke.

The best single coaching achievement of the year—that belongs to Bob Neyland—in winning from Duke.

"MY MIND WENT BLANK."
Beautiful blondes, when they pull out the old equalizer and pump four or five soft-nosed bullets into the boy friend for fancied or real philandering, always climb on the witness stand, show a length of silk stocking, and say:

"My mind went blank. I don't remember a thing."

I got in touch with Major Neyland yesterday. The actions and the thoughts of a man under stress of great emotion always have interested me.

I wanted to know what Neyland felt when he saw Harp catch the ball and start, and what he thought when he saw the interference pick him up and swing him into the clear. And I wanted to know what he said when it was done.

"I don't know," he said, "my mind is a blank as to what I said."

Maybe those blondes are right at that. Maybe the old bean is flooded with darkness.

"I didn't dare hope at first," said the Major. "I didn't see how he could. And then I saw he could. And I was afraid he wouldn't. And then I saw he was. And then I don't remember what I was saying."

Which sounds very logical. He had been figured to have a great defensive team, had the Major. Few thought he had an offense. Yet he outscored one of the best offensive teams of the season.

TULANE AND TENNESSEE.
Tulane's victory over North Carolina and Tennessee's over Duke, added a great deal of prestige to the Southeastern conference.

It so happened the two teams from the Tarheel state were the only major southern teams unbeaten and untied. Both had won intersectional victories, Duke defeating Colgate and North Carolina taking New York University.

Southeastern football had suffered something of a jolt through Georgia Tech's 19-to-6 defeat by Duke.

And then, on one Saturday, Southeastern eleven defeated the two undefeated teams. North Carolina already had beaten Tennessee. So had Auburn. But Tennessee scored two touchdowns and a safety while only six points had been scored in five previous games, and won. And Tulane scored a convincing victory, eliminating the Tarheels.

Wallace Wade has a fine football team. It undoubtedly went in there thinking it would win. Just as Tech must have entered the Vanderbilt game, thinking it would win. When the opposition comes up like thunder there isn't time to readjust the old mental apparatus.

NEYLAND FEARS GEORGIA.
Bob Neyland said yesterday he feared the Georgia game next Saturday at Athens with a real fear.

"I honestly look upon our game with Georgia as perhaps the hardest of the season," he said. "They have had a lot of hard luck. But our scouts say they have been improving every week and are plenty tough."

Which is true enough. Certainly no one team has suffered so many real injuries to so many varsity men in one season as has Georgia. To date the team has played two fine games, losing them both.

The team ebbs and flows. In the first quarter of the Auburn game, Georgia appeared absolutely helpless. Yet they came back with two touchdowns in the second half and played fine football.

If the team can ever knit together a consistent attack and not let the tide of attack ebb, then watch out. The odds don't say so. But Georgia might beat a Tennessee team which last Saturday went to great heights to win.

A FEW SURPRISES.
Georgia Tech was selected to win from Vanderbilt and fumbled away the chances. That tie game was one of the surprises.

'BELGIAN HITLER' HELD, BRUSSELS BARRICADED

Fascists March in Tensest Atmosphere Since World War Days.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Scores of bruised heads resulting from scuffles between Fascist advocates and police today marked the twenty-second anniversary of the Battle of Yser in the most tense atmosphere Belgium has known since the World War.

One man was shot in the leg. Several hundred were arrested. Leon Degrelle, sometimes called "the Belgian Hitler," was detained by police.

His declared intention of leading 250,000 of his Rexist party followers into Brussels to overthrow the government caused the cabinet to take extraordinary precautions unknown heretofore in Belgium.

Two Rexist deputies and Degrelle's protector, Count Xavier Degrulle, were taken into custody.

Veterans of the Yser battle assembled for their annual celebration with the city barricaded as if in a state of siege.

King Leopold reviewed the parading veterans before the palace while 4,000 gendarmes with rifles over their shoulders and wearing extra cartridge belts patrolled all roads leading into Brussels and the center of the city.

Machine guns were ready for action at the central postoffice and national radio station.

Premier Van Zeeland and his moderate cabinet frustrated efforts by Degrelle to assemble his followers from all Belgium but those already in the city paraded the streets to manifest their desire to set up an anti-parliamentary government.

Entrance to auto buses was forbidden. No street cars ran in the center of the city while police with clubs and gendarmes kept the crowds moving.

The war veterans' celebration, confined to a large park fronting the palace, was without incident.

SHOWERS PREDICTED FOR ATLANTA TODAY

Showers are predicted for Atlanta and the state today by Weather Forecaster George W. Minding, with not much change in temperature.

Sunday's high temperature was at 8 o'clock with 72 degrees, while low during the early hours at 56 degrees.

Atlantans are due for the showers.

COL. BRADY GIVEN POST OF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Lieutenant Colonel Maurice D. Brady has been appointed executive officer of Fort Benning.

He went to the post in 1932 as assistant executive officer.

Colonel Brady was in direct charge of all construction work during 1933 and 1934, when $6,500,000 of PWA funds were expended in improvements at Fort Benning.

He was executive officer of the district civilian conservation corps when more than 10,000 enrollees were assembled and reconditioned at Fort Benning.

CITY CHESS TOURNEY WILL BE HELD FRIDAY

Chess players of Atlanta will hold the annual city chess tourney at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Atlanta hotel. As a real test of the ability of the entrants, officials said they have decided to hold a round robin tournament.

Players may register through Friday night. All local players are requested to bring their own boards and men. The public is invited as spectators.

ALLEN'S FRIENDS MAP PRE-ELECTION PLANS

Statewide Campaign Will Be Waged To Create Lieutenant-Governorship.

Friends of Delacey Allen, of Albany, nominated in the September 9 Democratic primary for lieutenant governor, met here yesterday to lay plans to get sufficient votes in the November general election to create the office.

An amendment creating the office was passed by the 1935 legislature, but it must be approved by the people November 3.

At the meeting yesterday it was decided to have a committee of five in each county to have charge of getting out the vote for the amendment.

The statewide committee, under whose direction the county-by-county activity is to function, is headed by J. B. G. Bloodworth, of Atlanta. Other members of the committee included L. L. Patton, of Lakeland; Henry Davis, of Jackson; Bill Parker, of Cedarburg; J. G. Strickland, of Monroe county; L. H. Kelly, of Buford, and Hugh Knight, of Calhoun.

Major Quincy Melton, of Griffin, along with Patton, will seek support of daily and weekly newspapers in the interest of Allen.

The lieutenant governor-nominee was unable to attend the meeting because of illness. He was in Atlanta during the meeting but returned to Albany before the session was held. R. A. Garner, of Atlanta, presided.

Pensive June Travis Rules in Capitol Film

Beautiful June Travis, with pensive, fearful and sad get-ups, makes "Bengal Tiger," current attraction at the Capitol theater, a rather interesting picture. The picture is a heart-throbbing and dressing to the best advantage, nothing else matters, much.

"Ladies in Lingerie," featuring a cast of 25 variety specialists, is this week's offering on the stage. The show presents a front-line to represent models at a fashion show, and the other half is a dancing chorus.

The plot of "Bengal Tiger" is one of a man marrying a girl because he loves her, while her end of the bargain is to pay what he considers a debt to the man who aids her when she is down. And, of course, there is the friend who falls in love with the wife and finds his affection reciprocated.

The "big top" furnishes a background for the picture. Wild animals, the man on the flying trapeze (Warren Hull), a former trouper's daughter, and an animal trainer (Barton MacLane) are principal characters.

On the vaudeville bill this week are Hal Crider, comedian; Morris Nelson, a singer; Creve and Summers, who do dances; Texas Peggy, an up North gal doing western yodeling; the Rhythm Boys and Enrico Leide's Capitols furnish the music. There are several other acts. —L. R.

Chest Group Visits Home for Incurables

Printing and Publishing Industry Division Visits Home for Incurables.

Ask Samuel S. Day, left, how long he has been in the Home for Incurables and he will say 15 years, eight months and four days. He knows exactly, for in all those weary years he has not risen from his wheelchair. Yet he smiles, for at the Home for Incurables he receives every care and assistance. Those with him are leaders of one of the Chest campaign divisions, who visited the home to get first-hand information of Chest cases. They are, left to right, Ivan Allen Jr., and George Ripley. Mr. Ripley is director of the printers' and publishers' division.

Loved Ones' Fidelity Questioned In Many Letters to Alano Dass

'Your Husband Is as True to You as You Are to Him,' Psycho-Mentalist, Appearing at Rialto, Tells One Suspecting Wife in Reply.

"Is my husband true to me," asks one of the many thousands who have written to Alano Dass, psycho-mentalist, appearing at the Rialto theater, and also answering questions mailed him in care of The Constitution. This question is one of several hundred counter-questions. The only difference in them is that in place of husband, it is sometimes wife—or sweetheart—or friend—or boy friend.

The answer to-day is interesting. It shows keen perception. It reveals that the answers vary with the individual. It shows that Alano Dass is close to those who seek his assistance. It reveals a profound knowledge of human nature.

Alano Dass replies to the question, "Is my husband true to me?" by asking the questioner, "Do you love him?" "All that is necessary to ask a question is to write it plainly and briefly. A self-addressed, stamped envelope must be enclosed. Give your full name, address and birthdate. This information is held strictly confidential and only initials are used in making the replies. However, it is essential that the full information be furnished. The questions answered through The Constitution are in addition to those the psycho-mentalist answers at the two performances daily on the stage of the Rialto theater.

Today's Questions, Replies.

The answers to questions written yesterday by Alano Dass follow:

T. C. H.—Will I get a chance to sell my business and if so, when? Also would it be advisable to sell?

A.—You will have an offer, but I suggest you turn it down. I can't see any gain for you if you do sell, as you will be more or less at a loss to know what to do.

S. D.—Will the land we own in Panama ever bring us any returns?

A.—Yes, providing you keep in close contact with developments there.

N. M.—How far can a dog run into the woods?

A.—Not worthy of an answer, but if you think your question worth while, here it is: Halfway, because from there he'll be running out.

A. J.—Should I continue my friendship with D. M.?

A.—To me it appears it is more than just a friendship. I believe it is love and that everything you read out all right, even if you, at times, are rather worried.

E. C.—Is my husband true to me?

A.—I would rather not answer this question yes or no, but, anyway, I sure your husband is as true to you as you are to him.

F.—Will my warehouse continue to be rented at the present rate, or will I have to come down?

A.—As I note that you have the place under lease, it will not be necessary that you reduce your rental unless you wish to do so.

V. W.—Please help me find my boy's little dog. He is broken-hearted and nothing seems to make his forget his loss.

A.—I am under the impression that the puppy has been killed. If I were you, I would get another as nearly like the pet as possible and with the new one, his affection will become transferred soon.

K. H.—Will I take the contemplated trip to Europe next summer?

A.—By all means take the trip. It will be financially and romantically interesting.

D. J. D.—For a number of years I have been a public speaker, but, so far, I do not feel that I have been successful. It seems to me that the text of my speeches is interesting and I have mastered English fairly well; but, somehow, I fail to draw the interest and attention of the listeners. Can you tell me what I can do in order to influence and hold the attention of an audience?

A.—My friend, the secret lies not alone in what is said, but by the manner of saying it. The greatest secret of personal magnetism emanated from the speaker. Magnetism and personality have been the closely guarded secret of certain secret orders for centuries. That is why you find some books on "personal magnetism" and "creative personality." I am mailing you the names of some books which I feel would be very helpful to you. I also feel that a course in Yoga philosophy would be beneficial. If you will really concentrate and put forth real effort to strengthen your magnetism and personality, I feel sure that yours is the power to turn thoughts and words into gold.

H. C. M.—I have been feeling lousy for the past four months. What can I do to regain my lost pep?

A.—I would only start eating what the doctor tells you and stop drinking what he tells you not to, you'll be all right. Hangovers may be bad, but the pick-me-ups in the morning have less effect on you every day you take them.

P. R.—Who will I marry, and when?

A.—You will marry the young lady you are now keeping company with. I believe her first initial is H.

I. W. W.—Will I ever own any real estate in Atlanta?

A.—You definitely will. Also some in Florida.

M. N.—Would I be successful as an interior decorator?

A.—Yes, people born under your sign are creative and artistic. Carry on with your plans.

R. R.—Did the salesman I met last Wednesday night mean what he said or will I never see him again?

A.—Better not tell John about Wednesday night, as you'll never see the salesman again but will go back to John when he returns from Memphis. Be a little more careful in the made friends next time.

M. B. C.—My mother-in-law is now living with us. Can you tell me what she is going to move?

A.—Your mother-in-law is thinking of moving into her daughter's home. She will make this change sometime during the last week of November. More harmonious conditions will exist in your domestic affairs after that date.

L. E. C.—Will the person I am now corresponding with in the middle west ever come to Georgia?

A.—Yes, within the next six months.

E. A. W.—I wrote my mother about

It's not "just luck . . ."

Nor does it just happen so . . . when day in and day out Rich's sells more merchandise than any other store in the whole great South . . . and is now serving three generations of customers.

For 69 years we have striven unceasingly to supply the needs and demands of any and every customer. We've scoured the marts of the world to bring you what you want, when you want it, and at a price well within your purse. From the first little log store manned by less than a half dozen persons to our present commodious building with a trained personnel of more than a thousand . . . we've endeavored to render an earnest, interested and smiling service.

So today, on the threshold of the greatest year in our history, we wish to say it's been the faith and loyalty of our friends and customers. You've been our guiding star . . . you've charted the course of Rich's success . . . truly it hasn't been just luck.

MEDICAL SCHOOL BODY OPENS MEETING TODAY

Notable Speakers on Program for 49th Annual Convention.

Attracting doctors from leading medical schools throughout North America, the Association of American Medical Colleges will open its 49th annual convention at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel with an address by Dr. J. N. Baker, secretary of the Alabama State Board of Medical Examiners and president of the Federation of State Medical Boards.

Other speakers at the first forum will include Dr. R. E. Reinke, professor of biology, Vanderbilt University; Dr. Ralph G. Gilmore, professor of biology, Colorado College; Dr. Frank L. Babbott Jr., president of the Long Island College of Medicine, and Dr. C. W. Munger, superintendent of the Alabama State Hospital.

Following the morning discussion, those attending the convention will be shown through the Emory University medical school, hosts to the association.

Dr. John Wycoff, dean of the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, will deliver the annual president's address at a banquet to be held tonight. Other speakers on the banquet program include Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory, and Preston S. Arkwright.

GIRL, 5, SUCCUMBS TO GASOLINE BURNS

Uncle, James Faulkner, To Recover, Hospital Attaches Report.

A motor left running while the gasoline truck was being filled was responsible for the death in Grady hospital yesterday of 5-year-old Elizabeth Anne Gossett, of 973 Katherwood drive, S. W.

Elizabeth was riding Saturday afternoon on the back of a motorcycle driven by her uncle, James Faulkner, 21, of 13 Hill street. They drove to a filling station on Jonesboro road. The running motor ignited gasoline being poured into the tank.

The child and her uncle were enveloped in flames. Faulkner was burned about the hand and face but will recover, hospital attaches said.

The child is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Gossett, and two brothers, Howard and Floyd Gossett.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Capitol View Presbyterian church. The Revs. Julian Warner and W. H. Reed will officiate. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, with J. Austin Dillon in charge.

J. B. JOEL TO ADDRESS I. O. O. F CONVENTION

Jake B. Joel, grand master, Athens, will be the principal speaker at the semi-annual fall convention of the sixteenth division of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, meeting with Schiller Lodge No. 71 at its hall, 160 Central avenue, S. W., at 8 o'clock tomorrow. Division Deputy Grand Master W. Orris May has announced.

A called meeting of the Past Grand Officers Association has been announced for 8 o'clock tonight, with the Central Lodge No. 28, 100 Central avenue, S. W., as host body.

U. S. AIR MANEUVERS TO USE PACIFIC BASES

HONOLULU, Oct. 25.—(P)—A powerful American naval air force assembled today for secret operations designed to bring several little known islands south and west of Hawaii into the national defense system.

Under orders to move at dawn tomorrow, four aircraft squadrons, a flagship and four naval tenders, will carry 100 officers and 1,000 men into the area of far-flung, uninhabited islands that stood forgotten for centuries but came into significance recently as potential air bases.

Rear Admiral Ernest J. King indicated the expedition would concentrate at French Frigate Shoals, described as "a highly adaptive base point" 575 miles west of here.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

When I was 32 I met a man 42, well-educated, good natured, easy to get along with. You know, "poor but honest." He was very good to his mother and his aunt and I, like a son, thought he would be good to me. He still hands me the menu in a restaurant, never raises his voice, is always courteous. But neither does he put his hand in his pocket for me. I commute, work, cook, wash the dishes and never have any recreation. At first I used to say, "You pay your way to the movie and I will pay mine." He protested but gradually agreed. Now everything is accurately 50-50 and I am sick of it. He actually made me pay my expenses on a vacation which was spent at the seashore where I didn't want to go. It is humiliating to a woman to have a husband like this! I haven't used up all my vacation time and I want to go away by myself, pay my own way and have a change but he won't hear to it. Is this all my fault? Am I wrong to feel bitter and cheated that I gave up independence for his companionship and protection and five years later find myself cooking for him and paying for half of everything, buying all of my clothes and getting nothing in return but politeness? S.A.P.

Answer:

Friend, some of the men can't take it and that's all there is to it. Lift the load of responsibility off their shoulders and they turn so soft and flabby they can't tote any load at all. Naturally you feel cheated and self-reproached too for being taken in. It isn't surprising that you should want a trip and a change and a short separation from the cheap skate and not it is unreasonable for you to take it.

Of course neither two nations nor two individuals can fight their way to permanent peace. Yet a wife who works at home and at business, can give a skintail husband some facts and figures to mull over that may yield better results than a battle. Marshall your facts and figures. Show Schrooge that while dollars spent may read 50-50, your home work isn't counted in. A combination maid and cook would cost more than movie tickets, restaurant dinners, trips and what-nots which conventional husbands give their wives. Being such a push-over for politeness and honesty he may be brought to see that in common justice he owes more than he is paying.

Despite the fact that the records give the 50-50 marriage a high rating, it is a compromise and is usually the case when men and women are compromising the women come out of the little end of the horn. In the words of a wise yet ignorant old woman: "When something is against nature it is likely to cause a lot of trouble." It is against a woman's nature to work outside her home and divide the proceeds with a man, then work inside the home and get nothing for it but politeness.

SLAYING AT NAHUNTA BELIEVED ACCIDENTAL

NAHUNTA, Ga., Oct. 25.—(P)—Sheriff T. E. Raulerson, of Brantley county, said today he believed the shooting of James Harris, 16, on a lonely swamp island yesterday was accidental.

He said a boy listed as Carroll Lee, 13, told him in jail today the 12-gauge shotgun that killed Harris was in his hands when it was discharged.

The sheriff said the gun apparently slipped out of Harris' hand and was accidentally discharged by Lee as Harris fell to the ground.

He said he was holding Lee in jail while a talk with Harris' father.

My Day By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Friday—These last two weeks have taught me how many different ways people have of expressing their feeling about a candidate when they see him pass by. I have made a little mental list of the various ways in which the President has been addressed.

It ran from "Hi, Pal," to "Mr. President, Mr. President!" and in between is: "Hello, F. D.," "Hello, Frankie," "Rosy," "Teddy," and sometimes an imitation of the radio announcers: "Mr. President, Hi, Franklin Delano Roosevelt!"

Yesterday afternoon we were still a little behind schedule, but the people waited and I think we got through some rather difficult places without anyone in the crowd being hurt.

Sometimes it seems to me that the local authorities do not choose the easiest possible place for a meeting. But I am not as familiar with local conditions as they are and a place which seems obvious to me may really have drawbacks.

I learned long ago that I had one very bad habit—I always want to rearrange everybody else's arrangements, and I always think I can do it better. So trips of this kind are really excellent discipline for me, for I know that I can do absolutely nothing, and so I must be a silent passenger.

When we got back to the train in Stamford, Conn., the crowd closed in behind us so the cars in the rear could not get through. I took one look at the packed mass of people and wondered if all of our party, particularly Miss Lehman and Mrs. Scheider, could get through to the train.

Just as I was about to send out a searching party, I saw the very tall figure of Fred Storm, of the United Press, and clinging to him were the two lost ladies. Somehow he managed to pull them through the crowd and put them on the train.

We did not get into New York until nearly 8 o'clock last night. I found that a friend of mine, whom I do not see very often, was still in the city, so we decided to stay until this morning.

Of all the places we have visited recently, I can think of no lovelier country than the New England states in the month of October, except, perhaps, my own New York state. The yellow and red maples and the rust-colored oaks have not yet lost their leaves and the sun still shines warmly upon them.

Now day now a heavy rain or frost may strip the trees bare, but I am grateful beyond words for the beauty of this part of the country, which I love.

You possess clear foresight and have a great deal of natural ability. Psycho phenomena is a field in which you should find intriguing interest.

No. 211—You have a dynamic, magnetic personality, and draw people to you easily. You will desire and have the friendship of many worthwhile people. You are a good friend and make a good friend. Friendships will play an important part in your life. At various times in your life, important friendships will help you to achieve your hopes and ambitions. You are inclined to be somewhat extravagant with your money and you will accumulate faster if you will curb this tendency. It is always better for you to choose associates among those who are in harmony with your way of thinking, rather than to be associated with someone who is constantly trying to change them.

No. 212—The things most necessary to happiness in your life are beauty, harmony and change. Do not be impatient if these things do not come as quickly as you feel that they should. The indications are that when you least expect a change, the change will come and you will be able to live the life you have dreamed of. You have many loyal friends and few enemies. The few enemies that you have are not secret enemies, but they let their feelings be known publicly, so there is little danger of underhandness. The indications are that you will be happy and successful.

PATTERN 5720

"Madonna and Child"—how near and dear to our thoughts at Christmas time! What a handsome gift this striking wall panel will make, embroidered in softly colored wool or silk floss. For all its beauty, it requires but little time to complete; it's done mainly in single stitch, and you know how easy that is. The finished result is one that will prove decorative in whatever room it's hung. In pattern

5720 you will find a transfer pattern of a wall hanging 14x18 inches; a color chart; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed; directions for finishing wall hanging. Atlantans Enjoy Autumn Days On Georgia's Southern Coast

By Sally Forth.

ENJOYING the crisp, sunny autumn days on Georgia's southern coast are a number of Atlantans in the residence colony at Sea Island. The Albert Thorntons have taken a house directly on the beach at this resort. Mrs. Edwin Johnson and Miss Nellie Hightower are spending several weeks in the former's attractive beach residence. Mrs. Alfred Newell is busy supervising numerous details in the redecorating of her Sea Island cottage and will be joined for the forthcoming week end by Mr. Newell, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Porter. During the past week end Mrs. Newell's daughter, Mrs. Robert Whitley Jr., Miss Ruth St. John and Harvey Smith were her guests. Small Ben Smith Jr., young son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Smith, adores the beach, and his parents spend much of their time with him there. Also, they are fond of skeet shooting and fishing. Arthur Lucas has returned to Atlanta after a trip to Sea Island, where he and W. J. Vereen, of Moultrie, joined Russell Leonard and C. S. Kelley Jr., of Boston, aboard the latter's yacht, Nancy II, cruising down the inland waterway to the Sea Island Yacht Club. Mr. Leonard and Mr. Kelley will arrive in Atlanta the latter part of the month to spend several days with Mr. and Mrs. Lucas at their Peachtree street residence.

WHEN the perfectly appointed luncheon given by Mrs. J. K. Orr Jr. and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Vance, was in progress at the Athletic Club recently, the waiter entered with an enormous fruit bowl, which apparently was filled with lots of different fruits. But, if the guests thought they were having apples, oranges, pears and grapes served for dessert, they were mistaken.

The "fruit" was perfectly moistened ice cream, resembling in shape and color the fruit represented. Everyone thought the unique dessert was simply delicious, but it was almost too pretty to eat. Emily Evans, the nieces of Mrs. Orr, Alice Davis and Emma Middlebrooks, a trio of charming debutantes, were central figures at this much-talked-about luncheon.

SOMETHING to sip is not only served to the older set, but to the very young, as well. Sally refers to the birthday party given by Mrs. Sam Evans Jr. for her grandson, Sam Evans III, on the occasion of that adorable kiddie's first birthday. Prominent members of the baby set attended this cute affair, accompanied, of course, by their mothers, who were kept busy watching their youngsters, for they were just crazy about the new idea of going to parties.

For refreshments, Mrs. Evans served bottles of milk for those babies still drinking their daily beverage in this manner, while the other more sophisticated babies took their "straight."

But if you think the bottled-guests were embarrassed at being served in baby manner, you are wrong. Instead, the young "sophisticates" put up a simply terrible howl. They wanted bottles, too, after seeing their friends with them. Which of course, was very bad manners, but they were readily forgiven. Have you ever tried to demonstrate with a big blue-eyed, pink-cheeked, chubby

FINAL INSTALLMENT.

"He'll be returned to you, intact, just as soon as I can find him, if you will wait here."

"On the contrary, I'm looking forward to it! I'll bring your husband to you directly."

Making the best of it, she consented to wait while Mr. Allenbury was finding Bill. After a few minutes, Warren Haggerty climbed the terrace rail to her.

"You!" she exclaimed. "How did you know I was here?"

"Never mind that now. Come on! Quick! Bill and Connie must have suspected something. They're taking it on the lam—in a car. We'll follow them." He helped her over the terrace rail.

Haggerty's chase after Bill and Connie was fruitless. They returned to New York and canvassed the hotels at which they thought Bill might stop. Success rewarded them after an hour's search. On the register of the Grand was written "Mr. and Mrs. William S. Chandler."

"Yes, that's the couple we're looking for," smiled Haggerty.

"They arrived about 20 minutes ago," said the clerk. "Shall I ring them?"

Gladys forestalled her companion's reply. "We'd like to surprise them. She's my sister and I haven't seen her in two years."

Gladys tore up in a rage the "Do not disturb" sign on the door of Bill's suite and pounded on the panel. Connie opened the door with an inquiring "Yes?" but Gladys pushed past her into the living room where Bill was opening a bottle of champagne.

"Why, why, Gladys?" he stammered. "This is a surprise!"

"I'll bet it is!" Gladys confronted Connie. "I hate to bust in on your little party. Miss Connie Allenbury, but that man happens to be my husband."

"This," said Bill pleasantly to Connie, "is the lady I told you about."

"Mrs. William Chandler is the name," Gladys didn't create the effect she expected and repeated the name. Connie went forward gracefully.

"I've looked forward to meeting you. Bill has told me so much about you."

"He told you about me?" Gladys looked in amazement towards Bill and found him making for the door. "Oh, no you don't! You're not getting out of here!"

"I'm not leaving," Bill assured her. "I just don't want Warren to miss anything." He flung open the outer door, disclosing the listening Haggerty. "Come right in, Warren," he invited. "Could you hear all right or shall we start over?"

Connie greeted him pleasantly, but Gladys expressed surprise. "I didn't know he was out there," she said to Bill. "This has nothing to do with you or your newspaper, Warren. You keep out of this. As Mrs. William Chandler, I demand—"

Bill quickly interrupted. "I'm afraid there has been a mistake. This is Mrs. Chandler. He indicated Connie."

"What?" cried Gladys.

"Yes, we were just married—in Greenwich, Conn.," said Connie.

"Bill, have you gone crazy?" demanded the flabbergasted Haggerty.

"If you think you can excuse this by pulling a marriage gag—" began Gladys.

"Oh, but really we are married," interrupted Connie, and Bill produced their marriage certificate. Haggerty cast his eye over it.

"They're married all right! That's bigamy! What a story!"

"Print that and you'll have another libel suit," shouted Bill. "My marriage to Gladys doesn't count. Joseph Simpson is her lawfully wedded husband. She divorced him in Yucatan—by mail—and all Yucatan divorces were ruled illegal three years ago. I looked that up in the hall of records yesterday and consulted my lawyer. Gladys and I were never really married."

"It's all right," interposed Connie. "I've made an honest man of him."

Bill drew a letter from his pocket. "Here, Warren, a letter from Mrs. Chandler—she was so touched by your plea for the 500 starving employees, that she's dropping the suit."

Haggerty seized Connie's hands.

AUNT HET
By ROBERT QUILLLEN

English churchman putting sheaf of wheat on image of St. Cuthbert.

Hanging the wheat is part of a harvest celebration, and the custom goes back to the time of the Norsemen. Norse sea rovers, or "Danes," came to Great Britain's shores, and many settled in Northumbria, the part of England where St. Cuthbert had lived. The Norse custom was to "hang out grain for the ravens of Odin."

Harvest home feasts of Great Britain, and many countries of the mainland of Europe, may be compared with Thanksgiving feasts which have grown up on our continent, and which are widely observed in Canada and the United States. Thanksgiving in the United States comes the last Thursday in November, about a month later than Canada's Thanksgiving.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

The etiquette of picking up newspapers in street cars and subway trains has many subtle points. In the first place it's very bad manners to pick up a paper that belongs to the person sitting beside it. It is usually best to wait for a stop or two to make sure that the person beside it doesn't own it. If, after two stops, there seems to be complete indifference toward the paper, you can safely pick it up and become owner pro tem.

But then, by being so scrupulous about it, you may lose your chance. Someone else may wait only one stop. So you must be alert. If someone else, obviously not the original owner of the paper, starts eyeing it, you would better grab while the grabbing's good. The most discouraging thing of all is to be all set for picking the paper up when a perfect stranger stepping into the car makes a bee line for it with out any finessing. Then, we feel, that you are quite justified in snatching. And if you both snatch at once, stick up for your rights.

Perhaps it would be more sensible to take your own paper with you when you go street car riding.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

OLD HARVEST CUSTOMS.
—In Great Britain.

Among the old English harvest customs is one in which the rector of a church in the village of Acworth takes part. Each year he climbs to a niche in the side of his church where there is a statue of St. Cuthbert, and places a sheaf of wheat on the staff which the saint holds. St. Cuthbert was a monk who lived in England 1,300 years ago.

Odin, an old Norse god. Today no one believes in the god Odin, but the wheat is placed where birds can eat it, whether ravens or other birds.

An old ballad is sung at harvest time in some places in Great Britain. It tells of cutting down the grain, and the grain is spoken of as if it were a person. The ballad runs in part like this:

"They took a scythe that was full sharp, and cut him down at the knee. They took two sticks that were full hard, and sore they threshed his bones. The filler served him worst of all, for he crushed him 'twist two stones."

Harvest machines have come into wide use on farms of Great Britain, but on some farms the old methods of reaping and threshing by hand are still kept. Here and there we may find such a custom as this; the field workers keep track of the last sheaf of grain that is cut. When they go back to the farmhouse, they tie the ribbons around the sheaf and decorate it with flowers. Then comes the "harvest home," with feasting, dancing and merry-making.

Harvest home feasts of Great Britain, and many countries of the mainland of Europe, may be compared with Thanksgiving feasts which have grown up on our continent, and which are widely observed in Canada and the United States. Thanksgiving in the United States comes the last Thursday in November, about a month later than Canada's Thanksgiving.

A plane crashed—a pilot landed in a tree—a beautiful girl in a near-by field laughed, and received a spanking at the hands of the pilot.

Sounds silly, doesn't it? But that is what happened in the opening chapter of
